

MAKING DIAMOND CUTTERS OUT OF WAR CRIPPLES

BRIGHTON, Eng., May 24.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Soldiers who have lost a leg but whose hands and sight are perfect are learning diamond cutting and polishing in this Atlantic city of England. They are employed almost exclusively in an industry new to England and expect before the war is over to compete on a favorable basis with the more highly skilled diamond cutters of Amsterdam and Antwerp, where in pre-war days there was a monopoly of the business. Two large, modern, four-story buildings are being put up which when completed will employ 1300 discharged soldiers.

Only ex-soldiers with unimpaired eyesight and perfect control of their fingers are taken because everything depends on a man's accuracy of vision and control of his hands. Even with these qualities it takes a man a lifetime to learn the trade.

First the men pass through a training school. When a man is first admitted he is put to work on marbles such as he plays with when a boy. He cuts up and polishes the marbles as he will later do with the real stones. The marbles are first sawn in half, and then ground into shape by a steel disc. This serves to give him some idea of the finished shape of the real diamond, but it is impossible to get the face even approximately correct, owing to the softness of the marble.

Instead of cutting the 58 facets or surfaces found on the finished brilliant, the men cut six planes on the marble, and afterwards grind the base roughly into the shape of the collet or neck. When a man does this skillfully he is given a small diamond to cut, and it is a great day in a man's training when this stage arrives. The feeling that he has a stone worth from $100 to $250 in his possession to cut and polish gives him a sense of responsibility.

While undergoing training the men receive no wages, but they receive a government allowance of about $7 a week. After they have advanced far enough to be entrusted with a diamond they are put on a wage basis of from $10 to $20 a week, depending on their ability. Their training usually occupies a period of from three to six months.

AFTER THE WAR AGGRESSION WILL BE MET BY THE ALLIED TRADES

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 15.—While the allies are engaged in the struggle with German autocracy, the problem of meeting industrial aggression after the war also is receiving attention.

France is debating regulations to compel registration of nationality by manufacturers and trades people, so that the nation which has borne the brunt of the German assault may not unwittingly send gold to provide funds for another war. Italy has issued a decree requiring declarations of nationality. Others of the allied countries are discussing similar measures, despite opposition in some official quarters to anything favoring an "economic war after the war."

German duplicity and intrigue revealed in the last four years have strengthened fears in European countries that Germany may attempt to market her goods when peace comes by means of "masked exports," giving the impression that they originated elsewhere. Official dispatches, quoting financial writers, say that it is to be expected France for some time after the war ends will be dependent upon imports, because the most important industrial districts have been devastated by the invaders and in order to prevent unwitting buying of enemy goods, three measures have been suggested as follows:

1. To establish a personal register.
2. To establish a trade register.
3. To demand the national mark put on all goods imported into France.

With regard to the personal register, it is the intention to make one for each community, containing the names and addresses of all the inhabitants, their birthplace and the names of their parents. All storekeepers shall hang in their shops a sign plainly stating their nationality. On the basis of this personal register, a trade register shall be kept, as in Italy, Spain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Hungary and Germany.

There is no intention of boycotting German goods. Economists have pointed out that such a step would be a senseless thing to do and the intention in France is only to control the German imports and keep them within bounds so they will do no harm. To that end, the French syndicates have suggested that it be made obligatory for all imports to bear the national trade mark of the country of origin.

Writers in neutral European countries have pointed out that such international protective system would do away with all suspicion regarding the origin of goods made access to the big markets easier and protect them against being monopolized by the more powerful states.

Germany is not missing any chance to prepare for business after the war, plans in the making include one of such tremendous proportions as a canal between the Black Sea and the Baltic. The Lubeck chamber of commerce has reported that the canal would shorten the transportation of petroleum from Batoum to Hamburg 3000 kilometers, new markets for German goods would be opened and Russian products could be obtained by Germany at a much cheaper price than heretofore.

MAY LOSE WHEAT IN BIG MEADOW

A further effort to save the large acreage of wheat in the Lovelock valley which is threatened with destruction for lack of water, is being made by the state council of defense, which directed Governor Boyle and ex-Governor Oddie to go at once to Lovelock and endeavor to obtain the release of sufficient water from the reservoir there to irrigate the wheat lands which are now drying up, says the Gazette.

One tract of 1200 acres of wheat, located on the Rogers ranch, is now reported to be almost wholly without water and several other smaller lots are also in immediate danger of destruction.

At a meeting of the state council last evening a resolution was passed appealing to the stockholders in the Humboldt-Lovelock Irrigation, Light and Power company to surrender 800 acre feet of water now impounded in their reservoir for the purpose mentioned, and it is believed they will respond favorably. Yesterday W. C. Pitt and John G. Taylor, two of the largest stockholders in what is commonly called the Pitt-Taylor reservoir, expressed their willingness to release the water needed by the threatened lands, and it is believed that similar action will be taken by the other stockholders.

BARTLETT FINES FOR GETTING MARRIED

"I'll just fine you $5 for getting married," said District Judge Bartlett yesterday to Charles Ferretto, prominent Washoe valley rancher, after performing the ceremony which made Edith Belman of Sparks the young man's wife, says the Gazette.

Ferretto and his wedding party looked perplexed and were about to demur when the judge added that the fine could be paid to the Red Cross. Then they went away delighted and followed out the sentence.

Ferretto and his bride were married by Judge Bartlett yesterday evening in the judge's chambers. The witnesses were Mrs. Fred G. Crowell of Juneau, Alaska, and J. E. Perotti, prominent Washoe rancher.

Judge Bartlett says he's going to make a practice of imposing a Red Cross fine of $5 on every bridegroom who ask him to tie the knot hereafter.
